

HAVING CHILDREN IS A VERY SERIOUS CONSIDERATION, HILARY, PROBABLY THE MOST IMPORTANT DECISION YOU CAN MAKE.

SO HOW DID YOU AND DAD DECIDE YOU SHOULD BE PARENTS?

THAT'S PRETTY COMPLICATED, HIL, I'D LIKE TO WAIT UNTIL YOU'RE A BIT OLDER BEFORE WE DISCUSS THAT.

HOW MUCH OLDER?

35 WORKS FOR ME.

West leads his fourth-best spade, and South is elated to win a free finesse with his jack. Then he knocks out the diamond ace, expecting to score a few over-tricks. Unfortunately, it is West who has the ace, and South's play gives West something to think about. Clearly, a spade continuation will lead nowhere, and a club switch looks just as futile. So he leads a heart with faint hopes and hits the jackpot. The defenders take four hearts and a diamond, sending the game one down. How does the hustler play the game? At trick one, instead of accepting the free finesse, he wins dummy's king. When West wins his diamond ace, what will he do? Many players will place the spade jack with East and continue spades. South, still keeping his secret, wins with his ace and claims only 10 tricks — eight minor-suit winners and the ace and king of spades. Why did the hustler refuse the free spade finesse the second time? He is in on the "business" for winning money, not for giving lessons." The less his pigeons know about his tactics, the better it is for him. Besides, he wants to limit long, acrimonious post-mortems — the more deals, the greater his chances for a more lucrative session.
